SUBJECT: Jesse Helms, United States Senator from North Carolina, Election
Laws

Reference is made to your letterhead memorandum of August 30, 1976 in which you alerted us to a newspaper story depicting Senator Jesse Helms, of North Carolina, as having hosted on August 25, 1976, in Room G-219, Dirksen Senate Office Building, a fund-raising cocktail party for [redacted] a Montana senatorial candidate. If this story is true, 18 U.S.C. §603, which prohibits Congressmen from using "any room or building occupied in the discharge of official duties" for the solicitation or receipt of political contributions, may have been violated.

To determine whether §603 has been violated, we request that the Bureau conduct the following preliminary investigation.

- 1) Please determine if, in fact, the fund-raising event was held in Room G-219, Dirksen Senate Office Building as reported.
- 2) If that event was held, please determine the nature of Room G-219. In particular, it would be useful to determine whether this room is used for public meetings and whether it was rented by Senator Helms or the [redacted] for U.S. Senate Committee for the event in question.

3) Please also check the [redacted] for U.S. Senate Committee's expenditure records at the Federal Election Commission for the months of August through October to see whether there is any indication of a rental payment having been made for the use of that room. To avoid undue publicity, it is requested that the Bureau use the Commission's private viewing room when it examines the [redacted] Committee records.

V-33 8E41 REG2 N 5.6- 15258
[redacted] of the Federal Election Commission's Office of Compliance has requested that before examining any Commission records, the Bureau contact him personally.

MEMORANDUM AND ORDER

Senator Jesse Helms seeks leave to intervene pursuant to Fed.R. Civ.P. 24(a)(2) in two cases decided by this Court in 1977. In Lee v. Kelley, No. 76-1185, and Southern Christian Leadership Conference v. Kelley, No. 76-1186 (D.D.C. Jan. 31, 1977), this Court ordered that tapes and transcripts generated by Federal Bureau of Investigation electronic surveillance of Dr. Martin Luther King be held under seal in the National Archives for a period of fifty years, and that the tapes or their contents not be disclosed except under specific court order. The case is currently before the Court on Senator Helms' motion to intervene and his motion, under Fed.R. Civ.P. 60(b)(5), to vacate or modify the Court's 1977 order.

Senator Helms requests access to the sealed materials before the Senate considers, on October 19, 1983, legislation establishing a national holiday honoring Dr. King. Such legislation has been introduced numerous times in prior sessions of Congress. On August 2, 1983, the House of Representatives passed a King holiday bill and sent it to the Senate for consideration. More than two months later, on October 11, 1983, and barely one week before the Senate is scheduled to vote on the bill, Senator Helms filed this motion for intervention.

Fed.R.Civ.P. 24(a) (2) provides that:

"Upon timely application anyone shall be permitted to intervene in an action: ... (2) when the applicant claims an interest relating to the property or transaction which is the subject of the action and he is so situated that the disposition of the action may as a practical matter impair or impede his ability to protect that interest, unless the applicant's interest is adequately represented by existing parties."

Assuming that Senator Helms' motion is "timely made," Foster v. Gueroy, 655 F.2d 1319, 1324 (D.C. Cir 1981),^{1/} Fed.R.Civ.P.

24(a) (2) requires that the applicant show that he has an "interest relating to the property or transaction" at issue, and that disposition of the action "may as a practical matter impair or impede his ability to protect that interest." Fed.R.Civ.P. 24(a) (2).

See Donaldson v. United States, 400 U.S. 517, 531 (1971) (applicant must assert a "significantly protectable interest"). See also Nuesse v. Camp, 385 F.2d 694, 700 (D.C. Cir. 1967); Smuck v. Hobson, 408 F.2d 175, 177-80 (D.C. Cir. 1969). Cf. United States v. ATT, supra, 642 F.2d at 1291 (interest inquiry "in essence a question of standing to participate").

^{1/} As noted, Senator Helms did not file this motion until one week before the scheduled Senate vote on the King legislation. Under the circumstances, see NAACP v. New York, 413 U.S. 345, 366 (1973), it appears to the Court that Senator Helms' motion may be untimely. See Hodgson v. United Mine Workers of America, 473 F.2d 118, 129 (D.C. Cir. 1973); United States v. ATT, 642 F.2d 1285, 1294-95 (D.C. Cir. 1980). However, because "a court should be more reluctant to deny an intervention motion on grounds of timeliness if it is intervention as of right than if it is permissive intervention," id. at 1295, the Court will consider whether Senator Helms' application satisfies the second requirement of Fed.R.Civ.P. 24(a) (2).

Senator Helms claims a "protectable interest" in obtaining the sealed materials because of his "constitutional duty to cast an informed vote on all matters on which he is permitted to vote" as a member of the Senate. Senator Helms contends that this is an "individual interest," relying primarily on the Court of Appeals' 1974 decision in Kennedy v. Sampson, 511 F.2d 430 (D.C. Cir. 1974). In that case, the Court held that an individual Senator had standing to challenge the constitutionality of a Presidential pocket veto because the veto rendered his earlier vote on the bill ineffective and deprived him of his constitutional "right to demand or participate in a vote to override the President's veto." Id. at 433. The Court observed that the Senator's "stake in the litigation is a quantum of his official influence upon the legislative process." Id. at 436. Senator Helms relies on this language to support his claim of an interest in "effectively exercising his vote."

Senator Helms, however, fails to take into account the Court of Appeals' decision in Harrington v. Bush, 553 F.2d 190 (D.C. Cir. 1977). In that case, a member of the House of Representatives challenged the funding and reporting provisions of the Central Intelligence Agency Act of 1949, 50 U.S.C. § 403 et seq. (1968), claiming, inter alia, that the Act denied him information relevant to his interest in "consider[ing], debat[ing] [and] vot[ing] upon... Executive requests for appropriations for the Agency." Id. at 201. Furthermore, the Congressman sought the information to enable him to be a "more effective participant in the appropriations process." Id. at 202.

The Court held that the Congressman lacked standing to maintain the suit and narrowly limited the applicability of Kennedy v. Sampson. The Kennedy rationale does not support standing where the Congressman "relies on uncertainty due to the lack of information as the injury to his future votes." Id. at 211. Rather, the "concern expressed in Kennedy over injury to a future vote" is limited to situations where the "future vote in question [is] a constitutionally prescribed followup to the vote already cast on the same precise legislative bill." Id. (emphasis supplied). In view of Harrington v. Bush, Senator Helms' reliance on the Kennedy decision is misplaced; he cannot point to the past "nullified vote" necessary to invoke the Kennedy principle. See also Goldwater v. Carter, 617 F.2d 697 (D.C. Cir.) (en banc), vacated on other grounds, 444 U.S. 996 (1979).

Further discussion of the requirements for intervention is unnecessary. Even if it is concluded that Senator Helms asserts a sufficient "interest" for intervention purposes, and that he satisfies the other requirements of Fed.R.Civ.P. 24(a)(2), this Court must refuse his request for judicial relief. In two recent cases, Riegel v. Federal Open Market Committee, 656 F.2d 873 (D.C. Cir.), cert. denied 454 U.S. 1082 (1981), and Vander Jagt v. O'Neill, 699 F.2d 1166 (D.C. Cir.), cert. denied 52 U.S.L.W. 3263 (U.S., Oct. 4, 1983), the Court of Appeals considered the "separation of powers problems inherent" in cases where "individual members of the legislative branch", Harrington v. Bush, supra, 553 F.2d at 214, seek relief in federal court. In Riegel v. Federal Open Market Committee, the Court concluded that the standing, ripeness, and political question doctrines are incapable of "reflecting the prudential concerns raised by congressional plaintiff suits." 656 F.2d at 880-81. Consequently, the Court announced a doctrine of "circumscribed equitable discretion." In cases where the Congressional plaintiff "alleges an injury which could be substantially cured by legislative action," this standard "counsel[s] judicial restraint:"

"[I]t is in these cases that the plaintiff's dispute appears to be primarily with his fellow legislators. In these circumstances, separation of powers concerns are most acute. Judges are presented ...with the possibility of thwarting Congress' will by allowing a plaintiff to circumvent the processes of democratic decisionmaking." Id. at 881. See also Vander Jagt v. O'Neill, supra, 699 F.2d at 1168.

Senator Helms' attempt to intervene in effect represents a "dispute with his fellow legislators." In his supporting papers, Senator Helms emphasizes what he views as an inadequate factfinding process in the Senate: because the "Senate leadership waived the normal rules," "no hearings have been conducted concerning the proposed legislation in order to inform the Senators of facts either to justify or to defeat the passage of this legislation." Helms Memorandum of Points and Authorities at 5 (emphasis supplied). "No Senate committees have been charged with the responsibility to investigate Dr. King." Helms Supplemental Memorandum of Points and Authorities at 6. By intervening in this case to obtain the King surveillance materials, Senator Helms seeks to perform the investigative function of the committee hearings the Senate leadership decided to forego.

2/ By noting the absence of Senate hearings on the bill, Senator Helms acknowledges the principal role of committees in exercising the investigatory powers of the Congress. See 2 U.S.C. § 192 (1977) (establishing contempt penalty for failure to testify before authorized committee); Rules and Manual of the United States Senate § 26.1, p. 14 (1979) (authorizing committees "by subpoena or otherwise [to require]...the production of...correspondence, books, papers, and documents") (emphasis supplied); Eastland v. United States Servicemen's Fund, 421 U.S. 491, 505 (1975) (subcommittee subpoena power necessary for it "to do the task assigned to it by Congress"). Indeed, this Court in 1977 permitted a properly authorized committee, the House Select Committee on Assassinations, access to a limited portion of the King surveillance materials at issue here. Senator Helms, however, does not appear here on behalf of a committee authorized to consider the King legislation. Rather, he appears as an individual Senator, without Senate authorization, in what is undeniably an investigatory role. Although Congress' investigatory power is very broad, Watkins v. United States, 354 U.S. 178, 187 (1957), the "principle is important that disclosure of information can only be compelled by authority of Congress, its committees or subcommittees, not solely by individual members..." Exxon Corp. v. FTC, 589 F.2d 582, 592-93 (D.C. Cir. 1978). Moreover, the Fifth Circuit refused to permit two members of the House of Representatives to intervene in a private suit and seek materials held under a protective order, on the ground that the Congressmen "failed to obtain a House Resolution or any other similar authority before they sought to intervene" in the case. In re Beef Industry Antitrust Litigation, 589 F.2d 786, 791 (5th Cir. 1979). Exxon Corp. and In re Beef Industry illustrate the fundamental importance attached to proper consideration and authorization of formal investigatory efforts by Members of Congress. See Gojack v. United States, 384 U.S. 702 (1966); Watkins v. United States, supra. See generally Nowak, Rotunda & Young, Constitutional Law 248-50 (2d ed. 1983). Senator Helms cannot simply rely on his "[election to the Congress," Exxon Corp. v. FTC, supra, 589 F.2d at 593, as the basis for an order by this Court ordering public disclosure of sensitive materials resulting from an FBI electronic surveillance program.

It is not for this Court to review the adequacy of the deliberative process in the Senate or to question decisions of the Senate leadership. Cf. Vander Jagt v. O'Neill, supra, 699 F.2d at 1176; Metcalf v. National Petroleum Council, 553 F.2d 176, 188 (D.C. Cir. 1977). To conclude otherwise would represent an "obvious intrusion by the judiciary into the legislative arena." Riegel, supra, 656 F.2d at 882. Senator Helms, of course, is not prevented from entering the "legislative arena;" he can argue to the Senate that the sealed materials should be obtained and considered by a committee before a vote. In any event, the proper forum for this contention is the Senate, for "[i]t would be unwise to permit the federal courts to become a higher legislature where a Congressman who has failed to persuade his colleagues can always renew the battle." Id. See also Sanchez-Espinoza v. Reagan, 568 F. Supp. 596, 600-01 n.5 (D.D.C. 1983); Crockett v. Reagan, 558 F. Supp. 893, 902-03 (D.D.C. 1982); Moore v. United States House of Representatives, 553 F. Supp. 267, 270-71 (D.D.C. 1982) (all applying Riegel equitable discretion doctrine).

In view of these considerations, the Court concludes that Senator Helms' attempt to obtain the sealed materials must be rejected. Senator Helms' application for intervention does not satisfy the "interest" requirement of Fed.R.Civ.P. 24(a) (2). More importantly, separation-of-powers principles require this Court to exercise its equitable discretion and deny relief in these circumstances. See Vander Jagt v. O'Neill, supra, 699 F.2d at 1177.

Accordingly, Senator Helms' motions to intervene and to vacate or modify the January 1977 order are denied.

An appropriate order follows.

 Murfreesboro, North Carolina, was interviewed at the MURFREESBORO POLICE DEPARTMENT. He was advised of the identity of the interviewing Agent and was shown a copy of a letter received by Senator HELMS, which he initialed and dated. He was told the interview concerned this letter and was then advised of his Miranda rights. He read and signed an "Interrogation; Advice of Rights" form and then provided the following information:

He wrote the letter to Senator HELMS approximately one month ago. Senator HELMS represents the people of North Carolina, and that is why he addressed the letter to HELMS.

He believes everything in the letter is true and did not regret writing the letter. He said he would like to see the Capitol come tumbling down, but he was not going to cause it to happen. He has the power to stop this from happening, but would not stop it until he received the $25,000. He said the ground would shake and cause the walls to come tumbling down, and that no explosives or human intervention would cause this. He said this has nothing to do with God or with politics.

[redacted] would not answer questions about his plans for the $25,000. He said the $25,000 payment was the only way to stop the destruction of the Capitol.

In regard to the statement in the letter about the "SBI official," [redacted] said that meant he would obtain the $25,000 from Senator HELMS through the SBI official. He said he had never met the SBI official in Murfreesboro and did not know who he was.

[redacted] admitted that he knew it was against the law to send the letter to Senator HELMS, but said he did it anyway. He was asked repeatedly why he had written the letter and what his plans were for the $25,000, but would not respond to these questions.

[redacted] was asked what type of medication he was taking and responded he was not taking any medication at the present time.

Inform everyone who are national senators and representatives and say or show this letter amonge them.

A desolation has been decreed upon the nation and upon those in the nation. If I do not receive $25,000. dollars in cashiers checks at $25 each these things shall take place.

The two wings of the capital building shall crumble to the ground. It will happen in this manner.

Twenty four hours after this letter is read by anyone the walls of the two wings shall begin to shake and will shake for 30 minutes. At the end of thirty minutes the walls will slowly give way allowing any and all who are in there to flee. The crumbling will last for 30 minutes and at the end of the 30 minute period all

Result of examination:

Specimens Q1 and Q2 were searched through the appropriate sections of the Anonymous Letter File without effecting an identification. Copies have been added to this file for future reference.

No watermarks, indented writing of significance or other identifying characteristics were observed when examining specimens Q1 and Q2 which would indicate the immediate possible source of these items. The 20¢ stamp affixed to specimen Q1 was taken from a coil of stamps.

It was concluded that the questioned handwriting appearing upon specimens Q1 and Q2 was prepared by [redacted] whose known exemplars consist of specimen K1.

Specimen K1 is being returned herewith to the Charlotte Division. Specimens Q1, Q2 and the ALSO SUBMITTED items will be returned separately with the results of the requested latent fingerprint examinations. The submitted specimens have been photographed and appropriate copies are being retained.

The finger impressions which have the number in individual finger blocks circled on the attached cards are not susceptible of accurate classification because of one or more of the various reasons listed below. Each fingerprint card indicates by number or notation on the back of the fingerprint card the particular reason or reasons for its return.

- (1) Ink was unevenly distributed
- (2) Fingers not fully inked or rolled
- (3) Too much ink
- (4) Insufficient ink
- (5) Some impressions smudged, possibly fingers slipped while being rolled, or fingers not clean and dry
- (6) Ridge characteristics not distinct, possibly due to the nature of the individual's employment or some other cause. Legible prints may be obtained after a few days
- (7) Hands have been reversed
- (8) One or more fingers printed twice
- (9) One or more impressions missing or partially missing
Please indicate if there is an amputation. If no amputations, obtain these fingerprints. In cases of bent or paralyzed fingers, it is suggested that a spoon or similar instrument be used and the fingers be printed individually
- (10) Fingerprints not in sequence in spaces indicated
- (11) Impressions not black on standard white fingerprint card stock.
- (12) Fingerprint ink not permanent.

Due to the volume of fingerprints contained in the fingerprint files of the FBI, and the use of super break-ups and extensions in conjunction with the Henry Classification System, it is necessary to obtain exact ridge counts and tracings of all ten fingers in order to search our files properly.

In the event of serious injury to a finger precluding the taking of prints of the finger at this time, it is suggested that printing be done at a later date when a complete set of prints may be secured.

It is suggested that reprints be obtained and forwarded to the FBI for appropriate attention. When submitting the reprints it is not necessary to return the original fingerprint card, as only one copy of each set of fingerprints is necessary for retention in this Bureau's files.

For your information, a check by name only has been made on the enclosed prints with negative results.

Thank you for your cooperation in this matter.

PLEASE NOTE

Because of the vastness of our fingerprint records, it is imperative that the complete classification formula be employed for searching and filing in each instance. Accurate classifying depends primarily upon the best possible rolled impressions that can be taken.

Fully rolled, clear impressions allow for accurate pattern differentiation, ridge counting, whorl tracing, and interpretation of whorl types.

It is suggested that each newly completed fingerprint chart be examined to ascertain if it can be fully classified, bearing in mind the following: (1) loop-type patterns cannot be classified unless the center of the loop, the delta, and the ridges between them are clear; (2) whorl-type patterns cannot be classified unless the deltas and the ridges connecting them are clear; (3) arch-type patterns can be classified as such only if a sufficiently clear impression is obtained to permit identification of the pattern as belonging to the arch category.

While a concerted effort is made to retain every fingerprint card forwarded us for processing, in some instances this is not possible. The FBI fully recognizes the occurrences of situations which challenge the ingenuity of the identification officer to secure legible impressions. All returned fingerprint cards do not necessarily reflect upon the ability of the operative taking the prints and no returns are made at any time with such a thought in mind.

Your earnest co-operation is solicited in obtaining the best possible impressions in each block on each fingerprint card forwarded us for search. By so doing you are rendering a real service and making a major contribution to all agencies participating in the fingerprint exchange program.

Reference Charlotte memo of SA [redacted], dated 7/10/86.

On 9/26/86, Form R-84, Final Disposition Report, was returned to Charlotte from FBIHQ because the Identification Division could not locate subjects fingerprint card.

Subjects fingerprints were forwarded to FBIHQ shortly after his arrest on 5/21/85. The R-84 form was submitted to FBIHQ on 4/1/86 and returned to Charlotte in June, 1986 because the subject's original fingerprint cards could not be located. A second set of fingerprints, along with the R-84 were returned to FBIHQ on 7/10/86, per referenced memo.

Since two sets of fingerprints have already been forwarded to the Identification Division, the subject's R-84 Final Disposition Form is being re-submitted.

The finger impressions which have the number in individual finger blocks circled on the attached cards are not susceptible of accurate classification because of one or more of the various reasons listed below. Each fingerprint card indicates by number or notation on the back of the fingerprint card the particular reason or reasons for its return.

(1) Ink was unevenly distributed	(8) One or more fingers printed twice
(2) Fingers not fully inked or rolled	(9) One or more impressions missing or partially missing. Please indicate if there is an amputation. If no amputations, obtain these fingerprints. In cases of bent or paralyzed fingers, it is suggested that a spoon or similar instrument be used and the fingers be printed individually
(3) Too much ink	(10) Fingerprints not in sequence in spaces indicated
(4) Insufficient ink	(11) Impressions not black on standard white fingerprint card stock
(5) Some impressions smudged, possibly fingers slipped while being rolled, or fingers not clean and dry	(12) Fingerprint ink not permanent.
(6) Ridge characteristics not distinct, possibly due to the nature of the individual's employment or some other cause. Legible prints may be obtained after a few days
(7) Hands have been reversed

Due to the volume of fingerprints contained in the fingerprint files of the FBI, and the use of super breakups and extensions in conjunction with the Henry Classification System, it is necessary to obtain exact ridge counts and tracings of all ten fingers in order to search our files properly.

In the event of serious injury to a finger precluding the taking of prints of the finger at this time, it is suggested that printing be done at a later date when a complete set of prints may be secured.

It is suggested that reprints be obtained and forwarded to the FBI for appropriate action.

For your information, a check by name only has been made on the enclosed prints with negative results.

Thank you for your cooperation in this matter.

Please Note Instructions on Re

Please Note

Because of the vastness of our fingerprint records, it is imperative that the complete classification formula be employed for searching and filing in each instance. Accurate classifying depends primarily upon the best possible rolled impressions that can be taken.

Fully rolled, clear impressions allow for accurate pattern differentiation, ridge counting, whorl tracing, and interpretation of whorl types.

It is suggested that each newly completed fingerprint card be examined to ascertain if it can be fully classified, bearing in mind the following: (1) loop-type patterns cannot be classified unless the center of the loop, the delta, and the ridges between them are clear; (2) whorl-type patterns cannot be classified unless the deltas and the ridges connecting them are clear; (3) arch-type patterns can be classified as such only if a sufficiently clear impression is obtained to permit identification of the pattern as belonging to the arch category.

While a concerted effort is made to retain every fingerprint card forwarded us for processing, in some instances this is not possible. The FBI fully recognizes the occurrences of situations which challenge the ingenuity of the identification officer to secure legible impressions. All returned fingerprint cards do not necessarily reflect upon the ability of the operative taking the prints and no returns are made at any time with such thought in mind.

Your earnest cooperation is solicited in obtaining the best possible impressions in each block on each fingerprint card forwarded us for search. By so doing you are rendering a valuable service and making a major contribution to all agencies participating in the fingerprint exchange program.
